An inline hockey game means speed, contact and lots of emotion. Indoors, everything can be heard: every shout at the rinkside reaches the players, the benches and the referees. Most games go really well — but a few adults are enough to spoil the afternoon of twenty children. The BIHA and its clubs do not accept this behaviour.

WHAT IS A FAIR-PLAY PARENT?

A volunteer parent, recognisable by their armband, who looks after a climate of respect around the rink. They are not a referee, a team manager or a steward: they act through their presence, their smile and dialogue.

BEFORE THE GAME

- I introduce myself to the referees, the coaches and the table.
- I contact the visiting team's Fair-Play Parent.
- I welcome the visiting team.
- I invite supporters to stand away from the benches.

DURING THE GAME

- I stay visible, smiling and positive towards everyone.
- I encourage applause for both teams.
- I calm things early, quietly, through dialogue.
- If that is not enough, I alert the home club.

AFTER THE GAME

- I thank the referees, the table and the opponents.
- I give brief feedback to my Club Fair-Play Lead.

THE 6 RULES

- I cheer
- The referee decides
- The coach coaches
- Zero insults
- I applaud both teams
- I set the example

Never: physical contact, threats, game decisions, videos on social media.
